It was April 2016, after numerous years working in events and hospitality, creating events and providing a service that made other people look great, that I decided it was time to venture out on my own. Time to be proud of what I do and have a brand that reflected my passion. The first step in this adventure, was a purchase of a café in Albany, Auckland.

The 'Trio' cafe quickly become very popular expanding into a 6-day a week business, and even achieved 3rd place in Auckland's Café of the year 2017, in our first year of business.

Catering also gathering great momentum. Being based in a largely corporate area, the local business enjoyed our food and service in catering for their working lunches and functions. Catering then became a 7-day a week business. I then expanded the catering to an off-site commercial kitchen (still based in Albany) which we cater for working lunches, birthdays, corporate events, graduations, baby showers and the like – we provide the full service.

Catering and Events grew so substantially, that it has now become the core focus of the business.

Trio has established great working relationship, from catering the Kelly Tarlton's (every day of the year!) to Mitre 10 Head Office, NZME and many more companies and all types of private events.

To complement our catering service, Trio has invested in a mobile food trailer. This allows endless amounts of flexibility, for Trio to come to you, where ever you are and serve all the same quality food that comes from our kitchen, right at your door step.

As described above, I have created a brand and identity I am proud of and proud to be a part of. The team I have at Trio are second to none, they are the core of this business and hold the same values and passion that I do. We deliver high quality, fresh, local and healthy food coupled with great service and coffee. We can cater for all dietary requirements.

I look forward to continually expanding and growing Trio, whilst maintaining the elevated level of service, consistently of staff and innovative ways of providing tasty food and beverage.
